CREAMERY SCHEME IS POPULAR

During the past week a large number of enquiries have been made regarding the Creamery proposition and it is evident that the scheme meets with the approval of the vast majority of farmers in this district.

The Committee appointed by the Agricultural Committee has been working quietly with the sole object of obtaining the honest opinions of farmers rather than a pledge to subscribe to the proposed organization and their reports are unanimously in favor of the scheme.

This attitude is not surprising for the majority of the farmers in this district have come from localities where cream, butter, cheese and eggs form the staple products of the farm and they know that this district, if given the proper aids to development can produce an infinitely greater average of profit on these lines than any other form of farming.

There is no district in Canada which can equal in steady prosperity the districts where mixed farming is pursued, and there is no better location for a mixed farming district than a district which is fortunate enough to possess irrigation facilities and where the farmers have organized to keep their profits at home by the establishment of creameries, cheese factories and cold storage plants.

If the farmers of this Bassano district can put this creamery proposition over there will have made the start on the right road of development which will ultimately lead to steady prosperity.

U. S. Must Share in Work Of Aiding Austria

London.—In his speech Thursday, Lloyd George referred to the assistance the allies were rendering Austria
in food, coal and other supplies,
which he described as a mere "soup kitchen policy" mitigate a similar regarding large areas.

"But," he said, "we are already in severely want, and cannot undertake the task of restoring the shattered world unless we do what can be done
unless America comes frankly with us to take up her share."

Lloyd George defined the delay in connection with the peace treaty with Turkey on the ground of the fact that the Allies had not yet decided to what extent the United States intended to do. France and Great Britain, he declared, already had heavy burdens, while the United States was under no great extra-cost burdens and had her gigantic resources.

It would have been precipitate and led to misunderstanding and suspicions, Lloyd George said, had we not awaited America's decision. We are now entitled to say that we have waited up to the very minute in promised America, and there is no protection of America coming in.

D'Annunzio Still at Fiume

Women Said to Be Inspiring Him to Remain in the City

Trieste.—The withdrawal from Fiume of Gabriele D'Annunzio and his troops, which was set for December 16, did not take place, the women of the town having implored him to remain.

D'Annunzio announces that he will not leave Fiume until a plebiscite approves his departure.

A group of women in Fiume has organized a demonstration against his withdrawal.

Accident to Captain Alcock

Airplane Crashed Near Cottocard,
in District of Seine Inferiore, Normandy

London.—Captain Sir T. S. Alcock, who made the first nonstop flight across the Atlantic Ocean, has been seriously injured, according to a Lloyd's dispatch from Rouen. His plane crashed near Cottocard, in the department of Seine Inferiore, Normandy.

Four Thousand Balloons Close Chicago.—Four thousand of Chicago's five thousand balloons will close their doors or go into other business on January 1, according to an estimate by M. J. McCarron, secretary of the Chicago Balloon and Display association. "We really expected to see the saloons open up after the supreme court action," he said,
"and the decision upholding wartime prohibition took the pep out of the owners."

To Celebrate Gen. Wolfe's Birthday
London.—The 133rd anniversary of Wolfe's birthday will be celebrated January 3, in the usual manner, at his birthplace, by the usual dinner.

Sir George Perley, Canadian high commissioner, has accepted an invitation.

New Premier Endorsed By Ontario Farmers

Toronto.—Unanimously endorsing the election of Mr. Drury and his colleagues in the provincial cabinet as government representatives of the farmers in this province, the session of the U.P.O., held in Massey Hall in connection with the great strike, was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings ever held in that communities building.

A formal resolution, to this effect,
was carried without a moment's hesitation and when Premier Drury arose to express his thanks for this he was greeted with exuberant cheering.

"Thank you most sincerely," he said "for your expression of confidence in myself and my colleagues.
It is with a feeling of great humility
as well as with recognition of the honor you have conferred upon me and the men behind me, that I accept your reconfirmation of the action of the members elected to the political committee of our farming men as leader."

"I shall honestly and fearlessly and humbly endeavor to realize your expectations of myself and of the cabinet."

In the course of his address the premier put this question: "Shall we give clear legislation or shall we not?"
In this he was answered, "We will do what is right," said Mr. Drury. "You are farmers, but first of all you are citizens and you want no class legislation. You want to give to this provincial government of the people,
by the people, for the people."

Three sessions were held and all three were largely attended.

Want Limitation of Newspaper in U. S.

Bill Would Restrict Papers to Using Same Quantity as Last Year

Washington.—A new plan for restricting use of print paper was proposed in a bill introduced by Representative H. H. Hoch, Republican of New York, to prevent all news and periodicals, (from using more paper in the first six months of the year than in the first six months of the year. The restriction would take into consideration circulation and new publications.

Under the Hoch bill no published would be given same class mailing privileges unless filing a pledge to observe the limitation and violation would suffer the penalty of paying third class postage rates.

Currency and Exchange

Austen Chamberlain Says Nations Must Solve Problem of Currency

London.—Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the course of a debate in the House of Commons on the question of currency and exchange, said that the problem of the exchange could be solved by international effort, at which the largest share of the work necessarily must be borne by nations possessing the largest masses, not those who were in the war, from the United States and Australia, who added much less than the belligerents.

The Chancellor said that those members of parliament who suggested that he should leave or come home to attend the meetings of foreign ministers, failed to appreciate the difficulty of the problem, and he believed such a course would promote the desired settlement.

Art Treasures For Security

Aliens Take Fine Works as Security
For Loan

Paris.—The art treasures of Austria, like the famous Mona Lisa and the paintings of Raphael, which were brought to France by Napoleon, will be taken as security by the Allies in exchange for food and coal, which are to be sent at once to the famished population.

The Chancellor said that the capital already proposed without a call for special appropriations by

Milions are Starving

Hoover Says Immediate Help Must Be Sent Cent Europe

Washington.—Starvation faces
millions of people in Central Europe
unless some means are made available
for their assistance, Herbert Hoover, former food administrator, said in a formal statement. United relief is quickly furnished, the preliminary conditions and the ordinary will not interfere immediately with holiday traffic, as many of the changes will not go into effect until after the New Year.

Artificial Bank Robbery

Assembled Staff of Bank in a Room
Armed and Locked in Door

Aix-la-Chapelle.—A French soldier wearing the uniform of a captain of the Belgian army called upon the German chief of police here and demanded that he loan him three German policemen to search a bank for a sum of money which he had left in the vault of the bank. The soldier pointed one policeman at the outside door of the bank. He then assembled the staff of the bank and the manager in a room, the door of which he locked. He then demanded that the other police be locked up with the prisoners, and they were also put under lock and key.

The soldier then entered the vault of the bank, took out one million marks, and walked away from the bank. The manager and the staff of the bank were then released and the soldier who had shadowed the supposed officer and watched him enter a few minutes later dressed as a civilian.

The frequent use of such bisks is believed to be connected with the arrest of four men on the night of Dec. 13 on the landing, which was made public here. The quartette was held over, but the men were taken into custody by dock police and are still being held. All are foreigners.

Policemen Aid Burglars

Evidence Is Obtained—Sufficient to Convict at Least Six Officers

New York.—Enough evidence at least to convict six policemen was gathered in a five month's investigation of a notorious gang of robbers in Brooklyn and Albany, and a trial date was set for the beginning of the year.

On Dec. 13, the trial of the six
was opened in the Bronx, New York.

Attorney General Frank P. Murphy of New York, who is prosecuting the case, said that the trial would be continued to the Appeal Court. In the meantime, the liquor shipment, comprising 35 cases of champagne, which was brought to the Country club, must remain in the custody of the police. The court adjourned a regular trial by order of defense for the liquor to be delivered to the defendant company for restitution to Boyle-Wilton Company, Montreal, the consignors.

Buy an Irrigated Farm

From the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall, and insures good crops, not occasionally, but EVERY YEAR. Irrigation makes possible the successful culture of alfalfa, the king of "lais", which insures good returns in dryings and mixed farming.

Irrigation means intensive farming and close settlement, with all the advantages of a densely populated agricultural community.

Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Block is no longer an experiment, the years that it has been tried living absolutely demonstrated its success wherever intelligently applied.

For full information apply to the manager of irrigated farms, 141 on record.

The New Year has always been associated by philosophers and physiologists with the turning over of a new leaf in the book of life, a stretching forward to new and better endeavors and a resolve to blot out past mistakes by the absorbing qualities of new ideals.

All of us have pages in our book of life that we would like to tear out were that record not indistinctable and scarcely any are there who do not feel that a period in life which encourages us to turn back the soiled page and start out afresh with an absolutely clean sheet, or could be, is invaluable if we cared to use it.

If we close our minds to the remembrance of past hurts or indignities and allowed the vestiment of time to heal old sores, how much more happiness and good feeling would be engendered in the world.

The sun scarcely even dawns upon a deep hatred which close examination would prove to be justified and yet humanity nurses its petty scratches day by day, year by year and allows its disordered imagination to irritate a mosquito bite into a gaping open sore.

It is with communities as with individuals. If we are to progress we must as a community have a turning over point and a new start on the journey of development unhampered by the petty impediments which so often delays and never encourages progress.

We have a burden to carry and it must be the duty of every one to bear his share of the load, otherwise we can never hope to reach the goal.

As a community we may accomplish much provided we all pull together, but if we break up into teams or groups and pull in different directions we shall not only accomplish nothing but all our energies will have been wasted.

There are many objects within our reach which would if attained do much towards building up our town and district and, better still, bind us closer together.

The Agricultural Society is one of the greatest community builders we have. Let us get behind it to a man and make it a potent factor in our New Year's development.

The Creamery proposition is another potential community builder which should also be a great factor in the development of the district.

Our newly formed Musical Society has also great possibilities as a community builder and positive claims upon the wholehearted support of all, for it will do much to ward off the monotony of existence as well as add largely to the entertainment of the public.

The Women's Institute, another new organisation of the town, has within its scope an unlimited power for doing good not only in this community but in the broader communities of the Province and Dominion, if the society receives the support it is entitled to.

The Boy Scouts movement is another object which should receive the most enthusiastic support of our townpeople, for the building up of our boys and youths into fearless upright manhood is surely an object worthy of the greatest encouragement.

These are just a few of the many objects which have within

BASSANO, Dec. 13th, 1919.

Mr. Car Owner,
Anywhere.

Dear Sirs—

Sometimes you have a tire that you know is worth repairing but you don't know where to take it.

There is a place right here in Bassano, for we have installed a large steam vulcanizing plant and can look after your wants in the way of repairing and re-treading in every particular.

Bring in your automobile casings and tubes any time and we shall be glad to make a free inspection of them. We will look them over and give you an estimate of what it will cost. If we find them worth repairing we'll tell you. Sometimes a casing is as good but when it is torn down for repairs, inside weakness appears and we know it would not pay to go ahead. If we find that condition we'll tell you and you won't be charged a cent.

Every now and then we see tires thrown away that could easily be repaired so that they would give two or three times the mileage necessary to pay for the repair.

Even if the casing is weak it may not be necessary to scrap it. Maybe an inside tire protector can be cemented in and the casing may run until it is entirely worn through.

If you have tread cuts do not neglect them. Use your spare casing for a day and let us repair the cuts. This can be done for a trifling cost and it may save you a blow-out or a loosened tread. The constant contact with the road forces water and dirt into the cuts and in time the casing is ruined.

Get ready for Spring. Bring your tires to us at once and let us look them over. If you need new ones we can supply you as we carry all makes and sizes.

Yours very truly,

ROY SMITH.

Then the germ of community life should be given every support.

But there are many more objects which might boost Bassano's city and our great farming district into the limelight of steady prosperity if only we as a community were organised and worked together in harmony.

There is no reason on earth why we should not thus work, if only we could or would turn over the old soiled page which contains our fancied injuries and indignities, our petty grievances and our trivial quarrels and then start out afresh in the New Year with open minds and with the determination to allow nothing to come between us and our objects of endeavor.

That is what community work is—the sinking of self for the advancement of the community.

In extending to our readers and subscribers our Heartiest wishes for a Year of Happiness and Prosperity we may also add "A deepening of the community spirit in all for the greater and better development of our town and district.

That is what community work is—the sinking of self for the advancement of the community.

Musical Society Concert Will be a Winner

The grand opening concert of the musical society is being awaited with eager anticipation and interest for considerable speculation is being indulged in as to what surprises in the way of artists and choruses Director Carnegie has in store for the audience.

Without in any divulging any of his secrets we may say that Mr. Carnegie has prepared a program which will compare favorably in point of excellence with any presented by the various companies who have made this town on their tours during the past few years.

There are a number of new artists as well as several old favorites such as A. G. Bond, James Johnston and A. C. Wevel, and the feature of the whole program will be the opening and closing chorals numbers by the society.

The tickets are practically all sold and it is evident that there will be very few vacant chairs in the house when the concert commences promptly at 8 p.m.

Reserved Seats may be booked at Stiles' Drug Store and the public is advised that booking have to be made by Wednesday night as the day of the Concert is Public Holiday.

Communication

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:

I read with great interest the letter of the Mine Contractors which appeared in your paper last week. The explanation of "Double-forked" given by the contractor appealed to me particularly as I have just had occasion to test what was the difference between Mine Run and Double-Forked Coal.

I have just paid in a load of coal, which was double-forked, and which was double-forked and for which I had to take out the extra dollar. Upon inspecting the coal after being dumped I am wondering what sort of forks are being used at the mine for I am convinced that the majority of the coal in my cellar would have passed through a small comb.

If the mine contractor's statement is correct that all the coal from the town mine is double-forked and that some of the tenants are purchasing coal from the Indians and changing double-forked forks for it the townspeople are being not only overcharged but the town mine is being disgraced.

I am anxious to support home industry but I am not over anxious to play the part of a sucker in doing so.

Something should be done to prevent this misrepresentation and over charge or else the Town mine will go on the blink.

Yours for a

BETTER BASSANO.

"Better Bassano" is right and we would suggest to the Contractors that they issue load slips to every teamster hauling coal from the town mine such slips to accompany each load and bear the teamster's name and the signature of the contractor. This would prevent any teamster selling Indian-miner at Town mine Double-Forked prices. Ed.

Birthday Party

A dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Redhouse of Crowsfoot in honor of their daughter's 21st birthday on Sunday the 21st December, 1919, and invitations extended to guests to attend a dinner on December, 1920, to celebrate the 21st birthday to the coming of age of Mrs. Redhouse.

呈献 were given by Mr. and Mrs. C. Hollister and family, relatives and friends, and nothing proved to be more enjoyable.

Music was supplied by Mrs. Wilson and the Bassano Band for dancing and was highly appreciated, but the most delightful part of the evening was the singing of

Some Scrap

The Bear-Cat firemen struck a snag when they ran up against a bunch of nondescript Wild-Cats at Fortier's Alley on Friday.

A number of ingenious Ellis are being published to excuse their defeat, but the one which seems to stand in general credence is that the Wild-Cats "squared" the foul-line judge, and considering the fact that the said Judge was Harry Ward there seems grounds for argument.

Of course nobody has dared to suggest that the nondescripts were better bowlers than the Firemen even though the scores would indicate such a conclusion.

Needless to say Andy McKee was a high man with the corking good score of 168 while Billy Fortier was second with 142. For the winners Stiles was king pin with 135 and Jimmy Silson right on his heels with 134. Peter Craig just caught the caboose with 60, which made him high man for the lowly price of

It was altogether too bad.

Virtuous had not recovered from their Xmas orgies before tackling the Wild-Cats. It was good generalship on the part of the Wild-Cats' manager and the firemen were among the first to admit it. However we shall see what the "Roughnecks" will do to the Wild-Cats before we admit that generalship alone won the scrap.

So far, McNaughton's score has yet to be beaten though several have come within striking distance of it.

The Old Year and the New

When the great guns along the western battle front in Europe were silent at the eleventh hour on the eleventh day of the eleventh month in 1918, by the signs of the armistice, most people throughout the world expected that before another twelve months a peace Treaty would be drafted and ratified and brought into full effect. But more than a year has passed, and at the time of writing, the nations of the world are still technically at war, although actual fighting ceased on November 11, 1918.

Although peace has not yet come in its fullness, the war is not yet over. It has been a memorable one in the history of the world. It has witnessed the drafting and acceptance by most nations of a covenant of a League of Nations for the preservation of peace, on which the world has been incorporated in that covenant the new Magna Charta of Labor. Thus has the foundation been laid for better relationships, not only between nations, but between two of the elements of class to be found in a nation, and which in the past have been suspicious of and antagonistic towards each other.

The year also witnessed the crowning of the German nation in the sinking of the Lusitania.

marked by widespread industrial disorder, and by the entry of the world, from which Canada did not escape, although in comparison with other lands we got off lightly.

The principal upheaval in Canada has been the thought that the peace a turning away from old organizations created for the purpose of giving effect to the political aspirations of the people, and an acceptance of a new political movement when it is felt by many offers greater hope for the realization of needed political and economic reforms in this Dominion.

In this column just one year ago the soul-stirring words of the poem by the late Col. McCrea, "In God We Fight," was written, which the people of Canada and the world were urged to keep faith with those who lie sleeping where the blood-red poppies grow. In the year that has since passed, we believe, a awakening has come to the people of Canada have struck to keep faith. The political awakening among the people, to which reference has been made, is the outcome of a desire that Canada should be better fitted to meet and defend the fate of the fallen, is an evidence of a sincere desire to keep faith.

The truly wonderful response to the last Victory Loan was in order that Canada as a nation might keep faith and "clean up" its war obligations.

The awakening of the people is regard to masters of education, public health, community service, and the forward movement in the churches, and the earnest efforts to correct many questionable things among a heterogeneous band of employers and employees, are all the result of an honest conviction that the Canadian people must associate with their glorious and heroic dead.

Despite adverse crop conditions in many parts of the West, industrial distress and trouble, political uncertainties, and the increased ramifications, resulting in increased ramifications, and losses, coupled with the still mounting cost of living as much as 50 per cent, the result of these and other untoward conditions, Canada has gone ahead, and prospered. And our people in this year, now drawing strength to be inspired with the thought, and animated by a pressing desire to keep faith with those who died that Canada might live and be free, then the year up which we are entering will prove glorious in the annals of this Dominion.

But it is only in steadfastly keeping the faith that the young, vigorous and promising nation can become the dominant factor in the world, and that world expects that before another twelve months a peace Treaty would be drafted and ratified and brought into full effect. But more than a year has passed, and at the time of writing, the nations of the world are still technically at war, although actual fighting ceased on November 11, 1918.

Rifles or guns may be considered as sealed, and the person owning the gun must be responsible for further penalties. Parties travelling through Dominion parks must register their firearms, the route, to be travelled, etc., with park officers and stringent regulations as are also provided for the protection of game or destroying game at any time of the year. The maximum penalty set out is $500 or six months' imprisonment.

A Pill That Is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none have ever had a greater success than the well-known Parke's Vegetable Pill. Widespread use of them has been made in the treatment of all diseases, and particularly of the heart. They need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public favor, they are now to be found in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

Sheep and Goat Raising

Fact That Goats Are Considered Immature from Tuberculosis

The sheep and goat industry in Canada continues to grow, not only because of the great demand for meat, but also because of the increasing stone, beauty in quality and coloring, especially agate, chalcedony, Jasper and exquisite opal, infinite in the variety of colors and patterns.

The method of cultivation, by which the giant trees became rock, was one of the strange alchemies of nature. Probably the wash of water over the bark, and the roots, was shattered because they could not see beyond the cross. The transformation convinced them, not only of its essential glory, but gave them a forewarning of his triumphs, the coming King (Matthew 16:18).

A GREAT STOMACH BRACER

Makes You Feel Lively and Young—Removes That Tired Feeling

At some period in our lives there comes a time when the stomach is "off"—not working well—lailing to enjoy and digest our food. This is the time to use our right remedy. You really want a soothing medicine, one quick to act, and that is what you get in the use of a gentle laxative, with a tonic effect upon the stomach, liver, and kidneys.

Certainly the world affords no better for the stomach than Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Senna. The taste of the pills is ideal—can't be beaten! But in addition to their helpful action upon the bowels there are certain ingredients that strengthen and invigorate the muscles of the stomach, and so help to remove the effects of stomach misery, indigestion, sourness, flatulence, headache and biliousness.

Just like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they make you full of energy, healthy and strong. They help to maintain robust, sound, vigorous health, and that's just what you want.

Left alone, Ruggles summoned his courage and wrote to Miss Elliot. She had gone to St. Mark's Hospital, and, with the dressmaker, Ruggles signed to Mustapha that he had to go to the hospital. He took his cane and went to limp about the terrace and breathe the free air, fancying that he could not bear to think of dread Exulte of the Antics which it has probably been the case for a long time that he has not seen any body of water of his size in the whole world.

On the next day, a different Ruggles from the one who had sat there some weeks before, beneath the palms, now in a different dress, came to interview the lawyer had given him a full commission to represent a waste of time, the owner of the house.

On the terrace, in his favorite promenade, he passed the private garden, which he had to enter, and went to sit on a bench, with no memories. Skirting his edge, with no memories, he was about to sit down, when a French gown. Will you not rest for a moment there on the bench? I have a secret to tell you, which must have been told to you by your physician, and I am anxious to tell you.

"I am sorry, but I am not happy."

"I wonder if anybody's got the nerve to try to stop me. If I went down here now, he said, I'd be a fool."

Marie had been so deeply fascinated him. At the far end, he caught a glimpse of the latest, rose-colored, lace-trimmed, and stone-studded, staring in its direction, these came faintly to his ears, carried as though by a current of air, from the dimly lighted mossy corridor, a rippling, gurgling laugh.

Then, a short pause at his ribs. There, two hundred paces distant, were his youthful wands, happily ambling along the terrace, under the bower. And here was he, the Androgyne, a youth and master, dreamily alone.

What a world he had to live in now, as well as later? Why, moon about the pounds, bored and solitary, he had to wait for the matinée girl, of whom he was the appointed protector down there at the end of the avenue. Certain it was that his introduction was necessary to obtain his position.

He shook off the sudden, catching sight of the kiosk. Ruggles had, in fact, lost much of his manhood, if not all of it, the first few days, the parts which he had played, the sights which he had seen, the suffering which he had undergone, the heart which he hardened and maimed him. Why, he a millionaire and stockholder in many important concerns, and the great Walkessey concern, to be frightened from visiting a portion of his past, and to be compelled to return for his laugh from a girl of whose death he was the chief arbiter? Who was there to act as best pleased him?

Still, he hesitated for an instant. He gazed at the terrace, where the matinée girl was of snowy雪, delivered with others only the day before by a tailleur, and, having been born, he had to wait to announce his visit. But surely there must be servants at the hotel, and if he could not return for his laugh, they could scamper to their apartments and prepare themselves for the matinée girl.

He turned down the path. The sheltered trees were old and gnarled and misshapen, their branches curving squarely just above the forking of the upper branches, and the sprouts so numerous that the sunlight was able to struggle through. Almost at the end was an open space; a dimly lighted garden filled with sunflowers, and fence posts, a pergola led to a sunken garden of fruiting trees. And the figures drew this pergola the same white-clad figures which had been weeks previous to the day before.

"Now we see who's master here," said Ruggles to himself. "I'll take care of him, but this time he loses his job completely."

Leaning on his stick with a set face he waited the approach of the matinée girl. The first time he saw that he was of large stature with a rather haughty face and regular features, but the second time he was of кафе-afé culture. He was no longer young, and his dark eyes as they fell upon him were filled with a gleam of recognition and respect. Within a few paces he paused, and, as the tips of his fingers touched the ground, he laid them to the forehead, the mouth, the nose, the chin, and then the ear. "I am the sun," he said. "I am the earth." This performed, he stood upright, and, with a broad smile, touched the ground with his fingers, and then to the forehead, the mouth, the nose, the chin, and then the ear. "I am the sun," he said. "I am the earth."

"I am the sun," he said. "I am the earth."

The man smiled apologetically and shook his head. It was evident that he was not the master. Ruggles repeated his sequel in English, and this time with immediate effect he emitted a low groan and hastened toward the house. Ruggles wondered if he were dumb, which as a matter of fact was the case. A moment later he heard a knock at the outer door and came to where Ruggles was waiting.

"I am the sun," he said. "I am the earth." He came down and get acquainted with the young ladies, if they don't object.

Sarah smiled. The Greek woman had seen something in the world, which she had not seen before. She had been in the world, and the world had been to her, the house of the Sultan himself, that they were fully forceful with a natural agent, strength, which had been for the last few months of stirring events and roused the world to a new life, the newborn child upon its self-assumption.

As the two were located in the garden, the matinée girl, the matinée, the jalousies of the bungalow were set to rustling, and there reached the garden a single, sharp, clear, shrill note, by a shrillness that peculiar sound common to all humanity, which came from the matinée struggles to escape through the nasal passages. The color flamed into Miss Elliot's face.

"Mr. Ruggles," she said, "please go back to the hotel. Don't you know that you are making a difficult position? How can I have any discipline if you interfere with my apprentices? I am ready to receive you. Really, Mr. Ruggles, you have been guilty of a mistake, and I am sure that you will be always under rigid chaperonage."

Sarah smiled, but her intelligent face showed that she understood (or, at least, she understood the meaning of chaperonage). On the contrary, she looked rather pleased.

"Yes, air, thank you, sir," she said. "I am the sun, and I am the earth."

"I have like anything to interfere with my apprentices," she said. "But now that I am here, I am strong."

"How would I look if I was chased away like a cat that had been caught in the bird-cage?"

"Ruggles's lean face stiffened slightly, but the never failing smile was there.

"I have like anything to interfere with my apprentices," she said.

"But now that I am here, I am strong."

"How would I look if I was chased away like a cat that had been caught in the bird-cage?"

"In sorry, but I am afraid that you will be irritated," replied Miss Elliot, with decision.

Ruggles shook his head firmly. "No, air, thank you, sir," he said. "You will have to make the best of it, Miss Elliot. I've been walking here for half an hour, and I am very tired. Now, suppose you go in and see Sarah again, and that you get along straight, only then—"

"I am the sun," he said. "I am the earth."

Ruggles thanked her and limped over to the bench. Ruggles had overthrown the matinée girl, which he arranged quickly, then withdrew. Ruggles seated himself, and his car sought such a medley of things as he had never seen before, which might come from a nest of baby birds. Sarah heard it also, but affected to ignore it, while Ruggles was expressing his willingness to wait until the young ladies had returned to their room, and then to sit in the shade of the vine-covered pergola.

"Hassan, shall bring you some candies," said she. "You are, sir, we are very busy preparing the young ladies for Paris. Some of their English are not good, but I am sure that they will be good."

Ruggles thanked her and limped over to the bench. Ruggles had overthrown the matinée girl, which he arranged quickly, then withdrew. Ruggles seated himself, and his car sought such a medley of things as he had never seen before, which might come from a nest of baby birds. Sarah heard it also, but affected to ignore it, while Ruggles was expressing his willingness to wait until the young ladies had returned to their room, and then to sit in the shade of the vine-covered pergola.

"Hassan, shall bring you some candies," said she. "You are, sir, we are very busy preparing the young ladies for Paris. Some of their English are not good, but I am sure that they will be good."

Mrs. Chas. Nuter spent Xmas with her parents in Calgary.

Miss Acheson spent the Xmas holidays at her home near Dunmore.

The Herald says "Lieut. Poulet will continue his flight to Australia shortly." Some bird that pulses.

Born-On Tuesday December 30th to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Carnegy, a son.

Don't forget the Firemen's Annual joy-fest to-night. It is always a big winner and promises to be better than ever this year.

D. O'Neill of Ottawa arrived in town Xmas Eve and will spend a few weeks here with his brother Jas. O'Neill.

Miss Irene Bennett who is teaching School at Hussar spent the Xmas vacation with her parents at Lethbridge.

Start the New Year right. The Musical Society's Concert on the afternoon of New Year's Day will tune you up to concert pitch.

Robert McLean spent Christmas at Calgary, as also did Scotty McLean and "Irish" Miss Barracough.

In case the romantically inclined should threat this coincidence with an undeserved halo we might add that the combined visit was mere accident.

At the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, January 4th, special New Year services will be held, morning and evening. The Sunday School will begin at 10 o'clock. At 11.30 church service will be held, at which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed. All members are requested to be present. In the evening at 7.30 the minister will speak on the subject "Looking Forward." Special music will be rendered by a male quartette. Begin the New Year right by attending church services.

Superintendent Cameron has issued a notice that the C.P.R. will no longer answer inquiries regarding the correct time. S'pose he anticipates a great rush of queries as to when the Golden and Maple Creek trains will arrive.

Service at the Anglican Church next Sunday will be held at 7.30 p.m. On Monday January 5th the annual congregational meeting will be held. As there are some very important matters vitally affecting the church to be discussed at this meeting every member of the church is asked to make a special effort to be present.

The presence of a number of surveyors in town and the absence of anything exciting to argue about has given rise to the modest rumor that the C.P.R. is about to commence work on its promised Colony branch whilst others with more fertile imaginations have already bought tickets for Huston. In the absence of anything more substantial we suggest that the visitors may be merely a bunch of Californians who have come here to enjoy our summery winter weather.

Xmas Entertainment
at Hussar

A combination Xmas Entertainment and Dance held at Hussar on December 19th proved a tremendous success in every way, and has strengthened the growing spirit of community work in the town and district. The program which consisted of Solos, Choruses, recitations, dialogues, etc. was exceptionally well rendered and proved most enjoyable to the large audience. A concensus of opinion shows that the entertainment was just a little better than the previous best and reflected great credit upon those who were responsible for the training and particularly those who took part in it.

Curtiss Aeromobile

IS IN TOWN

What is it? It is a Talking Machine, but not like any one you have heard previously. It is designed and made by Curtiss Aeroplanes and Motors Ltd., the firm that built so many aeroplanes for the British and Allied Governments.

They say it is "the last word in Talking Machines" and we agree with them.

But there is nothing we can say here that will be half so convincing to you as seeing it and hearing it yourself. So come in and let us demonstrate it to you. We will be pleased to demonstrate it whether you buy or not.
